

Workplace Emergency Response Information

Toolkit to Keep Employees with Disabilities Safe

As an employer, you want to keep your employees safe, including during emergencies. This toolkit will help guide your efforts to plan your emergency response with special consideration to accessibility barriers.

Enacted May 1, 2019, the Accessibility Standard for Employment calls on employers to offer individual emergency response information to their employees.

Remember, one in four Manitobans have a disability. Most disabilities are invisible.

During an emergency evacuation, avoid guessing whose arthritic knees cannot descend stairs, which employee has severe asthma, or who is immobilized by panic attacks. Plan to meet the needs of all your employees.

What is required?

The Accessibility Standard for Employment requires employers to:

- Have individual emergency response information made available for employees with disabilities
- Ask employees who require assistance during an emergency for permission to share information with individuals who agree to help

Does this apply to my organization?

All Manitoba employers that employ at least one person must comply, including

- Businesses
- Non-profit organizations
- Manitoba government and public sector organizations.

All Manitoba employers must comply with these safety provisions by May 2020.

Tips to get you started:

The following steps are designed to help you comply Accessability Standard for Employment, Sections 15 and 16. You may wish to modify these steps to meet the circumstances of your organization.

Step 1. Review your emergency procedures

A good place to start is to learn more about emergency procedures that affect your workplace. For example, if you have not done so already, review your building's evacuation plan.

Share information about emergency procedures with your employees.

Step 2. Ask employees if they face barriers in the event of an emergency

To promote a safer workplace, talk to your employees about your organization's efforts to create accessibility and to keep all employees safe during an emergency.

Invite employees to notify you confidentially about their accessibility needs during an emergency.

The standard requires that the information employees share with you remains confidential and shared only a) with their permission and b) with someone who is designated to help them in an emergency

Please see the attached sample employee memo, which you may modify to reflect your circumstances.

Step 3. Engage affected employees in preparing for emergencies

Employees who face barriers are the experts on how best to remove these barriers, including during an emergency. In addition to talking with affected employees, you both may wish to record some relevant information to assist current and future management.

Please see the attached Sample Employee Emergency Information Worksheet, which you may modify to reflect your circumstances.

Step 4. Provide individualized emergency response information

The information you collect in the Employee Emergency Information Worksheet from an employee with a disability may be helpful in creating the individualized emergency response.

Meet the employee to discuss the information and available options.

Ask employees who require assistance during an emergency for permission to share information with individuals who agree to help.

Please see the attached Sample Employee Emergency Response Information Template, which you may modify to meet the specific circumstances.

Step 5. Review and update

Review and update the employee's emergency response information when:

- the employee changes work locations
- you review the employee's overall accommodation needs
- you review your organization's general emergency response policies

Sample Employee Memo

Subject: Employee safety during emergencies

At [organization], we take employee safety seriously.

If you have a disability, whether permanent or temporary, visible or invisible, and believe you may need help during an emergency, please let me know. I will ask you to complete a self-assessment form, then work with you to develop individualized emergency response information that will meet your needs in an emergency situation.

Please note that at this time I do not need to know the details of your medical condition or disability, only the kind of help you may need. The information you provide will be kept confidential and would only be shared with your consent. For example, if you need another person to assist you during an emergency, I would request that you allow me to share the relevant information with that helper.

If you have questions or you already have emergency response information and need to adjust it, please let me know and we can go through it together

Thank you.
